

Kansas ChamberPAC endorses area candidates

The Kansas ChamberPAC has endorsed Pat George from Dodge City in the race for state representative from District 119, and Melvin Neufeld from Ingalls in the race for state representative from District 115 in the upcoming Nov. 2 election.

The endorsement procedures for the Kansas Chamber's political action committee, ChamberPAC, result in selection of candidates for public office who understand the needs of the state's private sector employers and who can be expected to consistently vote to improve the economy.

Pat George and Melvin Neufeld have passed the ChamberPAC's rigorous endorsement process and demonstrated that they will be an advocate for business in the Capitol.

ChamberPAC supports and endorses state legislators and other candidates for the Kansas legislature who:

1. Support the Kansas Chamber's business agenda and legislative program.
2. Promote the tenets of the free enterprise system.
3. Pledge to make Kansas a better place in which to do business.

In our representative society, individuals and businesses can either choose to be effective participants in the development of public policy or victims of government shaped by others — because politics shapes public policy.

The Kansas ChamberPAC is built on a simple, yet solid premise: to identify, endorse and elect to the Kansas legislature champions of free enterprise, and to encourage greater business participation in the state's elections.

There is no role more critical for business than that of keeping our nation and our state economically strong by creating jobs, expanding opportunities for all Americans to participate in the economy, encouraging entrepreneurship and strengthening our competitiveness.

ChamberPAC is an independent, bipartisan organization supported by the state's small, medium and large businesses. Other state trade and business associations look to ChamberPAC for astute analysis of candidates, leadership on political strategy and tactics, and identification of the most important legislative races for business involvement.

S. Lewis Ebert
President and CEO
The Kansas Chamber